Resuscitating the Newborn Puppy

By JoAnne S. O'Brien, D.V.M.

Most breeders have had the discouraging experience of carefully planning a litter and then losing a number of the anticipated puppies at birth. The reasons are numerous. An apparently normal puppy may be stillborn, especially when labor has been prolonged. Breech births, wherein the hindquarters are presented first, often result in dead puppies when the umbilical cord is broken. If the puppy is not delivered promptly, it drowns or suffocates. Many puppies born by caesarian section never begin to breathe or may take a few infrequent breaths and expire. Occasionally puppies are born who breathe with deep, infrequent gasps which become further and further apart and then cease.

The technique described hereafter is one I developed over a number of years and is applicable to all breeds as well as kittens. It should be routinely used on ALL newborn puppies to expel any fluid present in the nasal cavities or windpipe and to resuscitate the non-breathing or gasping puppy. The method has saved many puppies for me and others to whom I have taught it. A few years ago, we delivered eight Burmese kittens by caesarian section and the tiniest, weakest kitten was resuscitated using this technique. She lived to become a renowned winner and Grand Champion and the mother of three Grand Champions. She is an outstanding example of a valuable life saved by using the described method of artificial respiration. Nothing is more satisfying than to see a healthy puppy at six weeks and know that a few minutes of work by you when it was born restored it to vigorous life.

TECHNIQUE OF RESUSCITATION After the puppy is born and removed from the sack, gently wipe the nose with cotton. Force the jaws open by pressing on the corners of the mouth and hinging the lower jaw open, then use a cotton swab to remove any fluids in the mouth. Next, tilt the puppy to an approximate 55 degree angle to the floor with the head DOWN. Hold the puppy with both hands, one hand over the shoulders and the other over the hindquarters. The method of holding the puppy is all-important. To explain further, I hold the forequarters in my right hand with the hand arched over the withers, the thumb on the shoulders and upper arm on one side, the index finger supporting the head and the middle finger holding the shoulder and upper arm on the other side. The hindquarters are held in the left hand with the hand arched over the rump, the thumb holding the thigh, the index finger curled down over the anal area and supporting the floor of the pelvis, and the middle finger firmly holding the other thigh.

Pretend the puppy is an accordion. The hands on the fore- and hindquarters are holding the handles. STRETCH the puppy to its full length. WAIT two or three seconds for the lungs to fill with air. PUSH the puppy together to its shortest possible length. The air should be heard leaving the lungs and often fluid is seen coming out of the mouth and/or nose. Be sure to keep the puppy at the 55 degree angle with the head DOWN. Repeat the STRETCH – WAIT – PUSH sequence about 12 to 14 times per minute. The movements should be gentle but strong enough that the puppy is visibly lengthened in the stretch portion and visibly compressed and the ribs rounded up in the push portion.

ADVANTAGES OF THE TECHNIQUE I prefer the above method of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation because it forces the fluid out of the airways and this is necessary for the puppy to survive. I prefer it to the direct compression-of-the-ribs method of artificial respiration because there is danger of injury to the delicate rib cage. Also, it is of some direct benefit to the circulatory system and reinforces the heartbeat. I suggest you practice this technique on your next litter and perfect it for the occasion when you need it to save a life. Try it; believe me, it works!

How To Clean Your Toilet

1. Put both lids of the toilet up and add 1/8 cup of pet shampoo to the water in the bowl.

2. Pick up the cat and soothe him while you carry him towards the bathroom.

3. In one smooth movement, put the cat in the toilet and close both lids. You may need to stand on the lid.

4. The cat will self agitate and make ample suds. Never mind the noises that come from the toilet, the cat is actually enjoying this.

5. Flush the toilet three or four times. This provides a "power-wash" and rinse".

6. Have someone open the front door of your home. Be sure that there are no people between the bathroom and the front door.

7. Stand behind the toilet as far as you can, and quickly lift both lids.

8. The cat will rocket out of the toilet, streak through the bathroom, and run outside where he will dry himself off.

9. Both the commode and the cat will be sparkling clean.

Sincerely,

The Dog

Bragg 2008

*The Brags Page is dedicated to those who wish to share with others.
Not always does it have to be about dogs or about happy times. The wish to share is all that counts.*

Linda Hulbert

DE ZWIN'S DREAM CATCHER ("Catcher") finished his UKC Championship on Feb 10, 2008 at the Capitol Terrier Association's UKC show. In the 4 shows for the weekend, he got one Group 4. two Group 3's and one Group 2. His first birthday was Monday, the 11th.

Jane & James Wade

Just a quick brag on my 7 month old puppy bitch, "Spice". This past weekend was only her second weekend out and on Sunday she went wb, bow, AND bov over a really nice special for 2 pts!! Her registered name is DOUBLE J'S WHO CAN RESIST. Her sire is Ch. Sherwood's Who's Your Daddy; dam is my bitch, Ch. Loma Point A Gift To Dbl J. As always, breeder/owner/handled. Her picture can be seen in the January issue of the Cocker Classic on page 43 with the upcoming hopefuls.
